

M

enwinnion is a family run residential home for the elderly dedicated to the principle that individuals should retain their dignity, personal esteem, autonomy and a level of self determination whilst living within beautiful surroundings.

The house stands in its own grounds on the western side of Lamorna Valley with magnificent views of the surrounding countryside. The gardens offer a safe environment for walking and there are numerous secluded corners and secret walkways to explore.

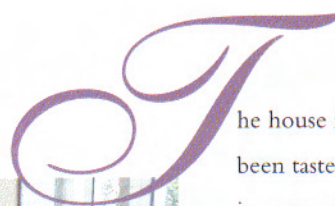

The gardens were originally laid out earlier this century and the judicious planting of trees and shrubs by former custodians is reflected in the present mature garden.

Residents who have an interest in horticultural matters are encouraged to use their skills in the greenhouses and gardens.

*The sun has set, the air is still,
The west is gorgeous with it's gold,
A Blackbirds song with flute and trill
Echoing from a farther hill
Is with the sound of surf enrolled.*

A poem to Jessica Heath, written by Alfred Munnings, June 1914.

he house itself is a grade II listed building and has been tastefully refurbished to a high standard incorporating all the amenities of today whilst retaining the charm and warm friendly atmosphere of the original building.

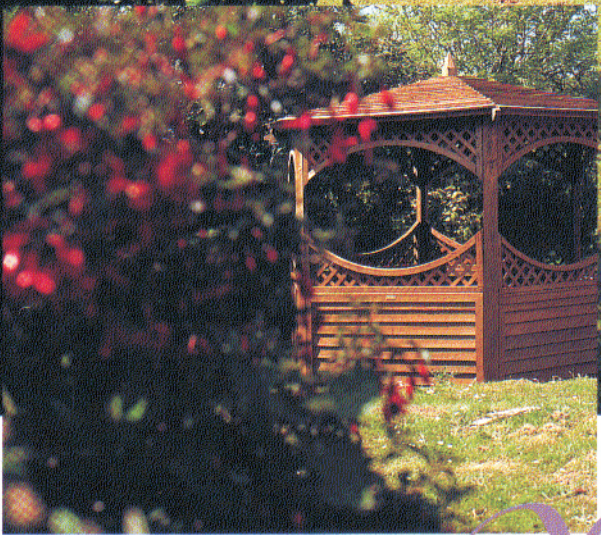

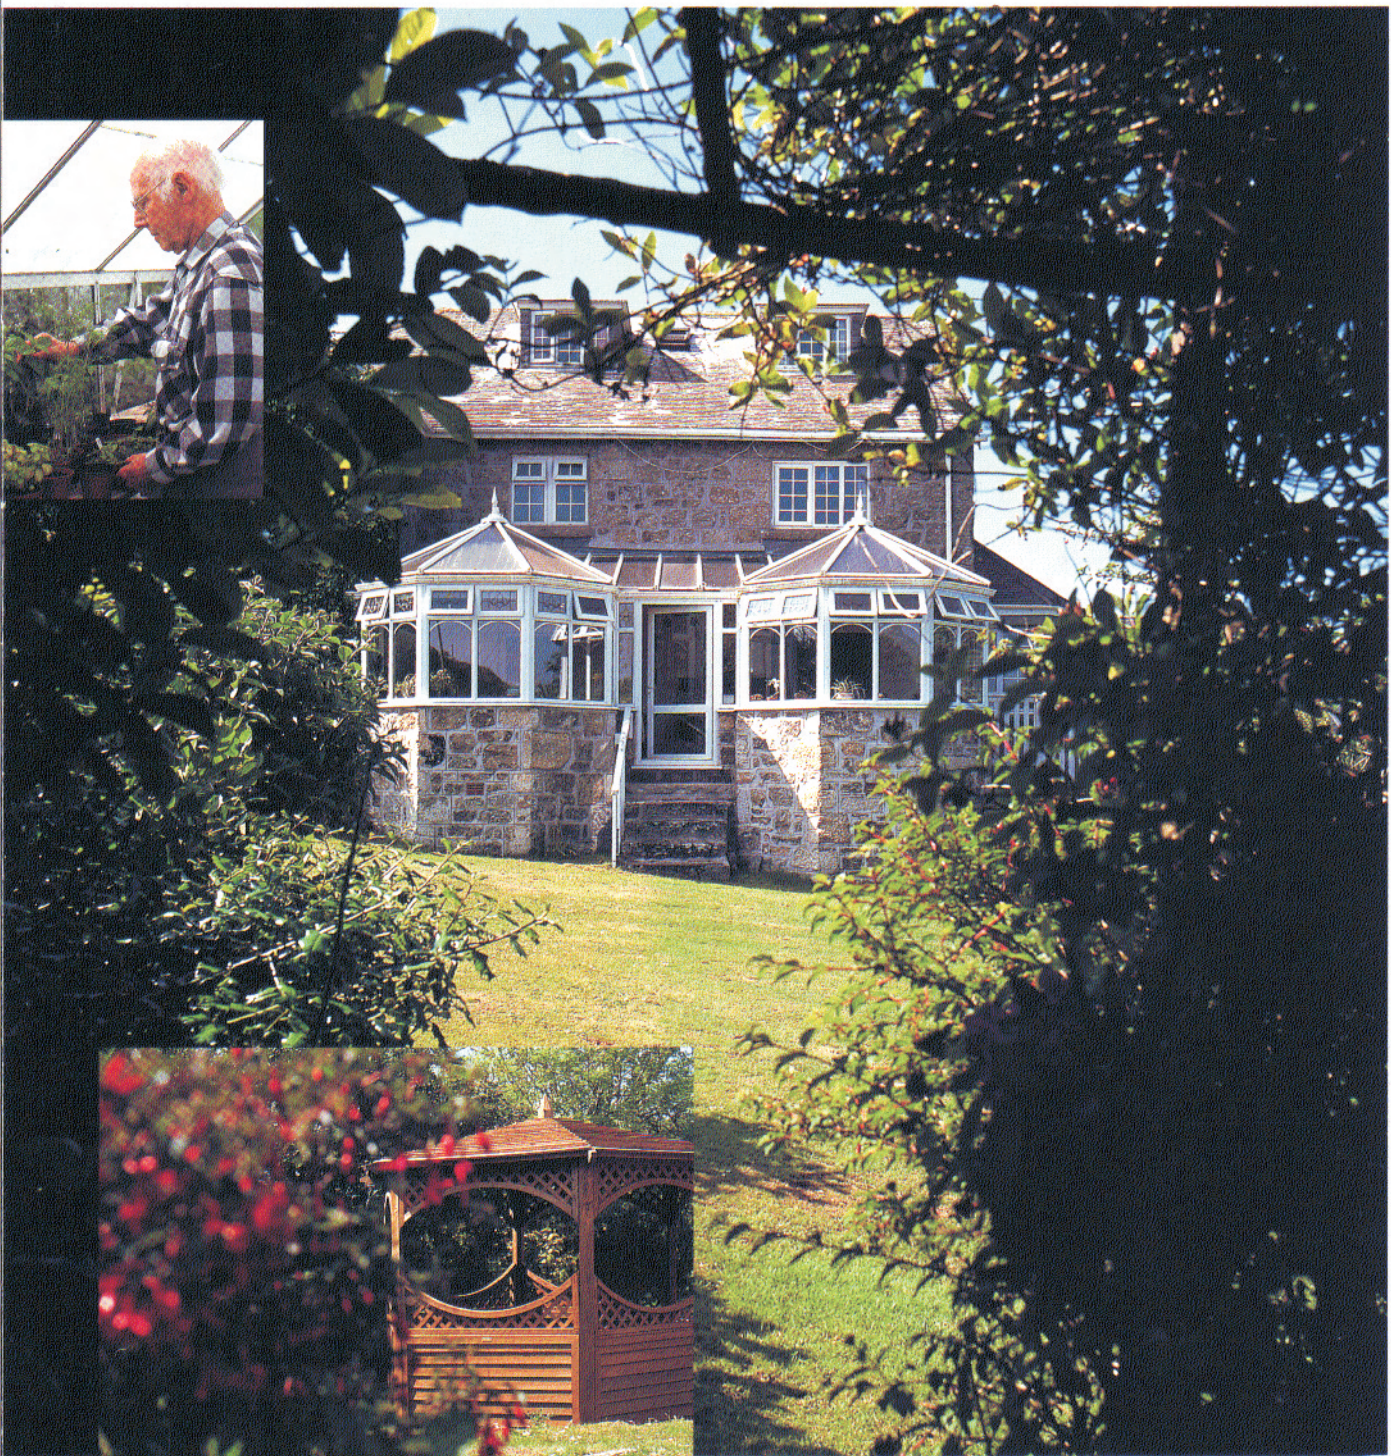

In addition to the three main lounges there are smaller alcoves and conservatory areas, giving residents the choice of privacy or socialising. The large dining room has lovely views over the gardens and countryside beyond, and for those who wish to make their own meals and drinks there is a large fully equipped kitchen for residents own use.

The bedrooms are all centrally heated with fitted carpets and curtains and are comfortably furnished, each with its own individual character. Residents may personalise their rooms with their own belongings if they so wish. Most of the rooms have en-suite facilities and about half have their own patio doors which lead on to level areas of paved garden and raised flowerbeds.

Each room has an emergency call system should help be required and there are no steps for those with walking difficulties.

We pride ourselves on the level of care we maintain at Menwinnion. Our staff are friendly, dedicated professionals who are always available when help is required. The assistance they provide is discreet, yet reassuringly close at hand, giving comfort, security and peace of mind.
